DEMOCRATS FIGHT FOR MORE CHANGES

White House Gives Definite Assurance Ickes
Will Not Administer
New Federal Fund.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The administration's $4,880,000 relief program today was shown of some of its proposed presidential power grants and faced a severe battle for further curtailment before house action tomorrow that will send it to the senate.

The way was smoothed somewhat today for the democratic leaders by definite assurances from the White House that Secretary Ickes would not administer the new work relief fund. Nevertheless, several stalwart democrats, including Representatives Bulwinkle of North Carolina; Driver, of Arkansas; and Connery, of Massachusetts, joined republicans in attacking the measure's vast delegation of power to the president. They served notice they would propose amendments tomorrow to further curb the delegation of authority still retained in the measure.

Work Relief Vague—Connery plans to demand the prevailing wage be paid instead of the $200 month contemplated for the 8,800,000 men to be transferred from the dole to work relief.

Democratic insurgents, still discontented with the measure, set themselves for a finish fight tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Speaker Byrns and his lieutenants carried out their compromise proposals. They brought in a liberalized "gap" rule that was finally adopted by a vote of 249 to 146. More than two dozen democrats sided with republicans and 10 progressives and farmer-laborites.

Still yielding to insurgent demands, the house appropriation committee adopted amendments it will submit tomorrow, aimed at Public Works Administrator Ickes and otherwise curbing presidential authority.

Concessions in Balance—The concessions the committee made, which have to be passed on tomorrow, are:

Names of types of projects to be considered would be eliminated, thereby making all federal and non-federal projects eligible.

Proposed authority of the president to abolish, consolidate or otherwise reorganize any government agency, would be restricted to "emergency governmental agency."

Authority of president to postpone until June 30, 1937, the termination of any governmental agency (including PWA) which expires June 16, 1935) would be eliminated.

Power to acquire personal property by eminent domain would be eliminated.

The penalty provision for violation of the act would be eliminated.

Japs, Chinese Clash In Chahar Province

Map Shows Japanese Objective in China—Towns on Caravan Route.

Once more the Far Eastern situation assumes grave proportions as Japanese troops invade Jehol and Chahar against Chinese forces. The "drive on bandits" is supposed to be aimed at cutting in two a caravan route between China and Russia, chief junction point in Kuyuan, whence caravan routes run south and southwest into China.

By H. R. EKINS.
PEIPING, China, Thursday, Jan. 24. (UP)—Heavy fighting was under way today in eastern Chahar province, where Chinese troops desperately sought to throw back a new Japanese advance into north-central Asia.

Dispatches from the front at Tushihou, a pass in the great wall on the Chahar-Jehol border north-west of Peiping, said the Chinese army had repelled the initial Japanese drive.

The Japanese war machine, consolidating its position in Jehol province and the rest of Manchuria, rolled into the pass by a long-suspected campaign which the Chinese fear is designed to cut Chahar province to Manchukuo.

The move is strategically vital in Japan's set-up of a buffer state against soviet Russia in Asia, for it would give her control of the trade route linking China with points on the Russian trans-Siberian railroad.

A Chinese spokesman told the United Press the Japanese force included 1,000 picked men aided by 1,000 Manchukuo soldiers.

The battle raged along a 25-mile front from Tushihou to Kuyuan. A strict censorship was established.

The Japanese military attaché in Peiping, Colonel Takahashi, confirmed that fighting had broken out at Tushihou, Kuyuan and Tungchiao.

He predicted a lengthy campaign, indicating that Tokyo is prepared to proceed with the "pacification" of Chahar.

The excuse given is that rebel Chinese irregular troops under General Sung Che-Yuan had been attacking Japanese troops in the region.

300 BILLS IN MILL AS 10-DAY SESSION DRAWS TO CLOSE

60-Day Session Opens
Today With Talmadge
Program in Line for First Consideration.

Its 10-day organization meeting ended with more than 300 new bills presented to the house and almost 100 submitted to the senate, the Georgia general assembly today will begin its biennial 60-day session with the legislative program of Governor Eugene Talmadge on the calendars of both house and senate for first consideration.

As the organization meeting ended the entire Talmadge program was given committee approval in the house and only two bills were not agreed on by senate committees. One of these was delayed in order that its scope may be broadened and the entire state deficit of $4,021,000 wiped out in the current session.

The first matters to be laid before the house and senate for second readings today, which means final action Friday, are the bills approving the governor's action in fixing the automobile license tags for $3 each in the years 1935, 1936 and 1937 and also the Talmadge sponsored bill fixing the price of tags at $3 permanently.

Little Opposition to Tag Bill—No opposition to the approval of the old tag price is expected in either house, but scattered opposition to the $3 tag as a permanent feature is being anticipated. Administration leaders in both the house and senate were confident Wednesday night, however, that both houses will give this bill an "overwhelming majority Friday."

If the legislature feels that commercial trucks and buses are not paying enough revenue to the state, which we think they are, it should raise the mileage rates these people pay the public service commission or should raise the price of their public service commission tag, which is now $25.

Representative H. B. Edwards, of Lowndes county, chairman of the administration steering committee, said: "The regular tag is for identification only and is not to raise revenue. The people of the state have few members of the house who will buck the tag bill, but we expect to get at least 175 out of the 205 votes on the bill."

Senator Fred Scott, of Thomasville, the administration spokesman in the upper branch of the assembly, voiced the same feeling.

Regents' Bill Coming Up—Following action on the tag bill the two houses will move through the balance of the Talmadge program. The only measure which it has been indicated, will require much time is the controversial bill to "curb the power" of the board of regents, which is expected to prevent the regents from carrying out their program to obtain a $2,600,000 loan and grant from the public works administration for improvements and additions to the 14 units of the university system.

This bill is not slated for final consideration until after the adjournment next week and the senate committee on the university, which has been handling it for that body, has agreed not to report it to the senate until it is seen in what form the house adopts it.

The only other measure which the senate committee has not adopted is the one calling for diversion of $2,000,000 in accrued highway funds to pay past-due obligations to the common school teachers and Confederate pensioners. The senate appropriations committee has withheld action on the bill in order to give President Charles D. Redwine an opportunity to prepare a substitute in which he will call not only for diversion of the $2,000,000 but also will ask the state to issue Western & Atlantic railroad certificates or warrants which the highway department discounted three years ago.

There are 34,847 registered voters in the county.

Intense Cold Wave Grips Nation; Mercury Drop to 20 Forecast Here

Temperature 51 Below in Minnesota Town; Flood Waters Rise in Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.

Coldest cold, floods and storms beset the nation Wednesday as winter launched its most bitter assault of the year.

Minnesota temperature records—some of them extending back 50 years—were toppled by a frigid wave that drove the mercury down to 51 below at Eveleth. Hundreds of families were marooned in the flood-stricken districts of Mississippi and Tennessee. Rivers roared out of their banks in western Washington, sending scores to places of safety and tying up transportation.

Unusual cold reached across the continent from the arctic circle to the Gulf of Mexico. Damage running in hundreds of thousands of dollars was wrought. New names were added to the roster of more than 70 fatalities.

Communication lines in Minnesota were snapped, work on outside was halted, schools in many parts of the state were closed. Eveleth, with its 53 reading, was the coldest point in the coldest state. The —38 registered at Duluth set a 50-year record for the date. Albert Lea, with —30, experienced its worst siege since 1904.

A similar temperature at Winona was the lowest in 26 years. Minneapolis and St. Paul reported —31, the lowest mark in 25 years. North Dakota recorded a minimum of —40.

The thermometer dived to —73 at Itasca Falls, Ont., threatening the all-time Canadian mark of —78 1/2 established in December, 1910, at Good Hope on the Mackenzie river. Blizzards were reported at some points on the Canadian prairies. Railway wire service was disrupted and the mercury went to —60 at Fort McMurray and —46 at Prince Albert, Sask. Fifty children were put to bed at the Winthrop Indian school to protect them from —34-degree weather.

Warnings were hoisted from Virginia to Maine as a storm swept up the Atlantic seaboard. A new snow mantle stretched from the Ohio to New England. New York put more than 32,000 men to work shoveling more than 11 inches of snow. Air traffic south and west from the nation's metropolis was suspended.

The Coldwater river—described as eight miles wide and 30 miles long in places—sent hundreds of north Mississippi families to houseboats, box cars and railroad dumps in sub-freezing weather. Hundreds of other refugees in northwest Mississippi and west Tennessee sought safety. Fears of drownings and death from exposure were rife. Boats hampered by ice went to the rescue. The Red Cross provided succor.

Cries of the marooned echoed over the north Mississippi river country as rescuers pressed every available motorboat into service to pull them from the statehouse.

Snow To Give Way to Lower Temperatures Here; All Georgia Cold.

Atlanta's severest cold wave of the year, which descended upon the city early Wednesday morning, blanketed the metropolis with snow and sent the temperature down to 22 degrees, will continue another 24 hours at least, with even colder weather in store tomorrow, according to Forecaster George W. Mindling.

The frigid wave was general throughout most of Georgia, snow falling in a number of Georgia cities.

The mercury was expected to drop to 20 degrees, and possibly a point or two lower, in Atlanta early this morning, and the maximum temperature today will not exceed 32 degrees, the forecaster said.

The cold will begin to moderate Friday, when rising temperatures are expected.

Snow began falling in Atlanta shortly after midnight Tuesday and quickly covered streets. It was sticking as it fell but after several hours moderated somewhat. The skies gradually cleared and sunshiny greeted the city at intervals throughout the day.

The snowfall was officially recorded as .04 of an inch. Children, and many of them engaged in a driving snowstorm to jam the tiny Hunterdon county courtroom.

He hunched his shoulders and braced himself in his chair and Koehler calmly improvised a little work table on a corner of the judge's bench and sent crisp pine shavings curling to the courtroom floor with Hauptmann's well-worn plane.

Carefully, he explained to the jury how an upright of the ladder from which the famous baby allegedly fell to his death matched perfectly a piece of flooring taken from the attic of the Bronx house in which Hauptmann lived at the time of the kidnapping.

"As a result of a careful study of the two," the expert testified, "I have come to the conclusion that those two pieces at one time were one piece."

With a calmness surpassing that of the handwriting expert who named Hauptmann as the author of the ransom letters, Koehler, a middle-aged man of average stature, bald, and mild of manner, demonstrated the experiments which led him to the conclusion that Hauptmann's tools built the ladder with Hauptmann's well-worn plane.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Bruno Hauptmann's denial that he kidnapped and killed the Lindbergh baby will be given to a Jersey jury at noon tomorrow, his chief defender said tonight.

"Noon sharp," added Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense.

But before that, the defense will do its best to break down today's accusing testimony of a government wood expert—a story that traced the grim kidnap ladder to Hauptmann's tools, to his Bronx attic and to the lumber yard where he once was employed.

Prosecutors said tonight that 20 minutes would suffice to complete Arthur J. Koehler's direct story. He is the expert who used Hauptmann's own plane today to show the jury that it left betraying ridges on the ladder.

Then the defense expects to use two hours in cross-examination, and the state will rest—unless it decides at the last minute to add a minor witness or two.

"We do not expect to spend more than the morning cross-examining Koehler, who we understand is the last of the prosecution's witnesses," said Reilly tonight.

Hauptmann's eyes, usually cold and indifferent, snapped in annoyance as his tool chest was thrown open to the gaze of a crowd that braved a driving snowstorm to jam the tiny Hunterdon county courtroom.

HOPKINS ASSAILS TOWNSEND'S PLAN

Byrd Proposes Changes in New Deal's Social Security Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins assailed the Townsend old-age pension today as "cockeyed," even as the administration's own proposals on the subject were being scored by Senator Byrd, democrat, Virginia.

Byrd, who "heartily disillies some New Deal ideas, told the senate finance committee he proposed to make some changes in the social security bill, asserting it would create a "dictator" in the person of the relief administrator.

He was referring to the provisions which would allow the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate the financial affairs of persons receiving relief.

T. E. SUTTLES WINS COLLECTOR'S POST

Chief Deputy Victor by 16 to 1 Over Thomas B.
West, Nearest Rival.

T. Earl Suttles was elected tax collector for Fulton county in a special election held Wednesday to fill the unexpired term of the late W. S. Richardson. The term will expire December 31, 1936.

Suttles received 4,878 votes in 51 of the 53 precincts, leading his nearest competitor, Thomas B. West, more than 16 to 1. West got 292 votes while the third candidate in the race, Jo Johnson, received 108.

The two unreported precincts are Palmetto and Goodes, both in old Campbell county.

Suttles has been chief deputy in the tax collector's office for 10 years and in his campaign statement announced that he would retain the same personnel in the office that served under Richardson.

Fewer than one-sixth of the registered voters in the county cast their ballots in yesterday's election, the bad weather further reducing what had been a record turnout in the race, he conceded beforehand would be a light vote.

There are 34,847 registered voters in the county.

Four Suspects Jailed Here In Hunt for Counterfeiters

Four suspects—a woman and three men—in the recent widespread distribution in Atlanta of counterfeit $10 and $20 bills were taken into custody late Wednesday afternoon by Chief of Police T. C. Sturdivant and United States Secret Service operatives and lodged in the city jail for questioning this morning.

More than $300 in bogus bills have been passed in Atlanta since Monday, while one attempt to dispose of the counterfeit bills at the Capitol theater was thwarted by the alertness of Miss Jean Gardner, the cashier.

The suspects gave their names as Maurice Kirschenbaum, 30; Leonard Kirschenbaum, 24; Samuel Kirschenbaum, 35, and Miss Sally Kirschenbaum, 24. They claim to be brothers and sister.

HAUPTMANN GOES TO STAND AT NOON

Bruno's Tools Constructed Kidnap Ladder, Witness Asserts.

found on the Lindbergh estate near the ladder on the night of March 1, 1932, of the same size and make as one missing from Hauptmann's tool chest, had been used in cutting out the recesses for the ladder rungs.

He told how a saw and the wood clamps in Hauptmann's kit were similar to those used in constructing the ladder.

There was never a tinge of doubt in Koehler's voice. He was as disinterested as a scientist in his laboratory as he went through the story of his infinite labors.

Through three earlier witnesses, Detective Lewis J. Bornmann, of the New Jersey state police, and two New York police department carpenters, Charles F. W. Enkler and Anselm Cramer, the prosecution had established not only that a board was missing from the attic, but that the attic itself could be reached with difficulty only through Hauptmann's apartment after taking down the shelves of a linen closet.

Inspector John J. Lyons, New York

detective, was called to tell of finding a sheet of paper in Hauptmann's home on the day of his arrest.

Wilents handed the inspector a piece of paper, and asked him where it came from.

At a small desk in the defendant's home in the defendant's presence.

The paper is of the same make used by the ransom note writer.

Wilents offered the paper as evidence but Reilly objected pending time to cross-examine the gray-haired detective on the subject.

The sleek, gray-haired officer explained that six police detectives were present when he found the sheet.

"Now I press the objection," Reilly said as he finished his questioning, arguing that it had not been connected with the defense.

Justice Trenchard admitted the sheet of paper allowing Reilly an exception and Lyons was excused.

Detective Lewis Bornmann, of the New Jersey state police, was then called to the stand.

Made Search of Home.

Peacock, who has handled most of the ladder, testimony, opened the direct examination.

Q. Did you make a search of the defendant's home for evidence?

A. I did.

Q. Did you search the attic?

A. I did.

Q. How did you gain entry to the attic?

A. It was necessary to climb through a linen closet to get into the attic.

Hauptmann watched the trooper closely as he testified, describing how the shelves of the linen closet had to be removed before the attic could be reached.

Bornmann told of finding sawdust and a saw in the attic.

The state sought to show that Hauptmann had cut a piece of the flooring loose to use as an upright in the kidnap ladder.

Reilly, alert and commanding, was on his feet frequently as he directed this new battle of the defense to keep as much ladder testimony as possible out of the record.

Jurors Study Photograph.

Peacock proceeded as the jurors studied a large photograph, which showed Hauptmann's attic and opening in the floor made by the missing board.

The remaining section of the board, the witness, in a thin, toneless voice, recited, was taken up by a police carpenter and turned over to Koehler.

Bornmann told how he returned later to the attic with Koehler.

Q. What did you do?

A. We checked the nail holes with what we know as "rail 16" in the ladder.

He pointed out the upright or side piece known as "rail 16."

Peacock asked the detective to show where the nail holes in "rail 16" coincided with holes in the floor joists of the attic. He pointed to the photograph.

"These holes and nails fit perfectly," we pushed the nails in with our fingers," Bornmann said, explaining the test he and Koehler made at the house.

The grain of the wood "appeared to match perfectly" when Koehler examined it, the witness said.

To drive home its point, the state produced a large photograph showing how the attic flooring became complete again when the kidnap ladder upright was placed in the gap.

Peacock next produced a package of nails asking Bornmann to identify them.

"These are 'ten cut' nails I obtained from the police carpenter from the floor board of the attic," he replied.

Managers of Haverly stores from every section of the south gathered in Atlanta Wednesday night to honor J. J. Haverly, president, founder and active head of the furniture organization bearing his name, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the opening of the first store.

The main attraction on Wednesday's program was a dinner at the Capital City Club, in honor of Mr. Haverly, and attended by the visiting managers and the personnel of the two Atlanta stores.

Clarence Haverly, elder son of the founder, and vice president and treasurer of the company, served as toastmaster. All the visitors made short talks.

Bronze medallions bearing a likeness of Mr. Haverly, and inscribed: "Haverly's 50th Anniversary—1885-1935"

Q. When you first obtained "rail 16" and this board from the attic, were they the same color?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. You objected that there was no connection between board and "rail."

Peacock explained "we propose to show 'rail 16' and the board are of the same piece."

"I'll admit the board," said the justice.

Peacock interrupted cross-examination by Pope to ask for admission of a photograph of the board and "rail" being allegedly in original relation to the floor in the attic.

Pope objected to the photograph as "manufactured" by the police.

"That board was 'rail 16' of the ladder," snapped Peacock at one point in the argument.

"It was never part of that floor," retorted the chubby Pope. "It is a false picture."

"There's no manipulation" Wilents interrupted, "we are trying to be helpful. The testimony is that this board and 'rail 16' were placed on the floor and the nails dropped into the holes and they fitted perfectly."

"We don't want to agree with anything," Pope said, taking up the argument again.

Justice Trenchard ruled that the photograph was evidence and he refused to strike it from the case. He opinioned the defense would not be "prejudiced."

Cross-Examination Resumed.

The cross-examination resumed.

Pope started out by establishing the main plank had been 8 feet in length.

Q. What happened was you took "rail 16," I call it a runner, and laid it in that vacant space in the floor?

A. Yes.

Q. It didn't reach completely to the end of the space, did it?

A. There was a space at the end of an inch and a quarter.

Q. The nail holes in that ladder were so loose you could push nails in and out?

A. With thumb pressure you could.

The questioning was on the upright of the ladder which was made of Carolina pine. All other uprights were made of fir.

Carpenter Recalled.

Charles W. Enkler, a New York police department carpenter, was recalled for his story of the attic investigation of the testimony of the ladder, interrupted repeatedly.

Once he bounded forward to prevent the witness from answering an objectionable question and knocked over his chair at the counsel table.

Anselm Cramer, another police carpenter, told the same story Enkler had just completed.

Arthur J. Koehler, star witness in the state's wood case, was then called to the stand.

Koehler said he made his first investigation of "rail 16" October 9, 1934.

"I found," he said, "the nail holes in the attic joists corresponded and the grain of the wood was the same as the board there."

Wilents holding, the questioned ladder rail in one hand and the piece of Hauptmann attic floor in the other, asked if Koehler had discovered any relation between them.

Fighting the defense's losing battle on the wood evidence, Pope leaped to his feet and surprised the court by challenging Koehler's qualification as a wood expert.

"He is not qualified," Pope said.

"We say there is no such animal known among men as a wood expert."

The bald-headed technologist sat with a sphinx-like expression on his face, while Pope questioned his qualifications to determine wood grain similarities.

Pope was given permission to cross-examine Koehler on his qualifications.

Pope asked that he be allowed to question Koehler after the noon recess and Justice Trenchard approved.

Court recessed at 12:26 p. m.

The room was as jammed as ever when court resumed at 1:46 for the afternoon session.

Wilents began to question Koehler on the relationship of the ladder rail and the piece of wood from the attic.

Q. Is there any knot hole in the ladder panel?

A. No.

Q. How do you account for that?

A. It was sawed off.

Pope, fighting step by step to prevent admission of the testimony of the ladder, interrupted repeatedly.

Once he bounded forward to prevent the witness from answering an objectionable question and knocked over his chair at the counsel table.

Anselm Cramer, another police carpenter, told the same story Enkler had just completed.

Arthur J. Koehler, star witness in the state's wood case, was then called to the stand.

Koehler said he made his first investigation of "rail 16" October 9, 1934.

"I found," he said, "the nail holes in the attic joists corresponded and the grain of the wood was the same as the board there."

Wilents holding, the questioned ladder rail in one hand and the piece of Hauptmann attic floor in the other, asked if Koehler had discovered any relation between them.

Fighting the defense's losing battle on the wood evidence, Pope leaped to his feet and surprised the court by challenging Koehler's qualification as a wood expert.

J. J. Haverly Paid Honor at Banquet Here By Managers of Stores Throughout South

Managers of Haverly stores throughout the south gathered Wednesday night at the Capital City club to honor J. J. Haverly, president and founder of the chain, on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the first store. Seated above, left to right, are Clarence Haverly, elder son of the company head; J. J. Managers of Haverly stores from every section of the south gathered in Atlanta Wednesday night to honor J. J. Haverly, president, founder and active head of the furniture organization bearing his name, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the opening of the first store.

The main attraction on Wednesday's program was a dinner at the Capital City Club, in honor of Mr. Haverly, and attended by the visiting managers and the personnel of the two Atlanta stores.

Clarence Haverly, elder son of the founder, and vice president and treasurer of the company, served as toastmaster. All the visitors made short talks.

Q. When you first obtained "rail 16" and this board from the attic, were they the same color?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. You objected that there was no connection between board and "rail."

Peacock explained "we propose to show 'rail 16' and the board are of the same piece."

"I'll admit the board," said the justice.

Peacock interrupted cross-examination by Pope to ask for admission of a photograph of the board and "rail" being allegedly in original relation to the floor in the attic.

Pope objected to the photograph as "manufactured" by the police.

"That board was 'rail 16' of the ladder," snapped Peacock at one point in the argument.

"It was never part of that floor," retorted the chubby Pope. "It is a false picture."

"There's no manipulation" Wilents interrupted, "we are trying to be helpful. The testimony is that this board and 'rail 16' were placed on the floor and the nails dropped into the holes and they fitted perfectly."

"We don't want to agree with anything," Pope said, taking up the argument again.

Justice Trenchard ruled that the photograph was evidence and he refused to strike it from the case. He opinioned the defense would not be "prejudiced."

Cross-Examination Resumed.

The cross-examination resumed.

Pope started out by establishing the main plank had been 8 feet in length.

Q. What happened was you took "rail 16," I call it a runner, and laid it in that vacant space in the floor?

A. Yes.

Q. It didn't reach completely to the end of the space, did it?

A. There was a space at the end of an inch and a quarter.

Q. The nail holes in that ladder were so loose you could push nails in and out?

A. With thumb pressure you could.

The questioning was on the upright of the ladder which was made of Carolina pine. All other uprights were made of fir.

Carpenter Recalled.

Charles W. Enkler, a New York police department carpenter, was recalled for his story of the attic investigation of the testimony of the ladder, interrupted repeatedly.

Once he bounded forward to prevent the witness from answering an objectionable question and knocked over his chair at the counsel table.

Wilents began to question Koehler on the relationship of the ladder rail and the piece of wood from the attic.

it. It was offered as evidence.

Again the defense objected.

Wilents argued the photograph of grains was merely for "comparison" as writing done with the exhibits of handwriting.

Justice Trenchard said he could not admit the "entire photograph" but directed that the examination continue with the exhibit marked "for identification."

Another photograph of the ends of rail and board together showing the "annual rings" was admitted for identification and Koehler began a description of the alleged similarity of the marks.

A third photograph to depict further the alleged "ring" similarity was offered for identification.

Pope asked if Koehler ever saw the half inch missing piece. Koehler said "no" and the justice said he could tell what he knew about it.

Koehler next showed how the cross grain rings appeared on the surface. On the photograph which showed a black space between the ladder rail and the floor board, he traced the grain of the wood over the gap. The state contends Hauptmann sawed off an inch and a half of wood because of a knot hole.

Wilents asked Koehler to explain why the rail was narrower than the board. It was planned he said with the plane from Hauptmann's tool chest.

A brief recess was taken at 3:15.

Koehler described how he made the composite microscopic photograph showing how perfectly the plane marks corresponded on the ladder and wood planed by Hauptmann's plane.

Q. These plane marks, are they plane marks of the plane in evidence here?

A. They are.

Wilents gestured with the plane in the direction of the jury.

Q. What plane was used to plane rungs No. 8 and No. 10 in "rail 16"?

A. This plane here (indicating Hauptmann's).

The chisel found on the Lindbergh estate after the kidnaping came back into trial limelight. Wilents handed it to the witness.

Q. Can you tell whether or not that chisel was used to build that ladder?

A. This chisel of that size—three-quarter inch—was used.

Pope objected to the testimony on the chisel pointing out it was not found in Hauptmann's tool kit, but "40 miles away."

Justice Trenchard overruled the objection, saying testimony regarding the size of chisel used in making the ladder might be given "for consideration of the jury."

Tool Chest Exhibited.

Wilents called Hauptmann's tool chest out in front of the jury and had it opened. Hauptmann snapped annoyance. Lindbergh edged forward in his seat.

Koehler said a carpenter's set of chisels consisted of a quarter-inch, one-half, three-quarter inch, one-inch, one-and-a-half and two-inch.

Wilents was attempting to show the chisel found at Hopewell was the size missing from Hauptmann's tool chest.

Q. Is there any three-quarter-inch chisel in the set?

A. No.

Q. Are the 1-4-inch chisel and the 3-4-inch chisel of the same make?

A. Yes. They are "Buck" chisels. Made by the Buck Company.

Koehler with an enlarged photograph of a recess for a rung in "rail 16," showed how a 3-4-inch chisel fit "perfectly" into cut marks in the recess.

The kidnap ladder—the top section of it—went into the jury box as Koehler showed how the kidnap scene chisel fitted perfectly into the groove found in a rung recess. The jury crowded around it, those in the back rows bending down to see better.

Later the men and women in the box examined two chisels—the kidnap scene tool and one from a kit of similar make tools found in Hauptmann's tool chest.

Wilents then had Koehler tell of tracing the source of the lumber in the ladder.

"I traced some of the lumber to the National Lumber and Millwork Company in the Bronx," Koehler said. This, he said, was before Hauptmann's arrest.

Q. How did you trace the lumber to the National Lumber and Millwork Company, the Bronx?

A. I traced some of the lumber to the South Carolina planing mill where it was finished and from there to the National Lumber and Millwork Company, the Bronx.

Describe Wood Finishing.

Before launching into his "long story" on how he traced the machine planer marks on the kidnap ladder, Koehler described how wood is finished at the mill. He used diagrammatic charts to illustrate his lecture.

The expert demonstrated, from his diagrams, how a nick in a planer made or an improperly adjusted blade would make identifying marks on the lumber passing through the machine.

He made a canvas, "from New York city to southern Alabama," of planing mills using the particular type of planer, with the same number of knives, as was used in dressing the ladder lumber. The canvases included 1,698 mills, he said.

His search finally led him to the Dorn plant in South Carolina.

Q. Is there any knot hole in the ladder panel?

A. No.

Q. How do you account for that?

A. It was sawed off.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

An unidentified white man was found in an unconscious condition Wednesday night by Radio Patrolmen E. F. Tuggle and Paul E. Jones in an alley off Greenberry avenue, near Villard street.

At Grady hospital, here the man was taken, attendants found a crumpled piece of paper in his pocket on which was written the name of Otto E. Scoggins and the address, 632 Cherry street.

Two negroes, found near the unconscious man, and unable to explain their presence, were arrested and held by police on "suspicion," according to police reports.

FRENCH CHAMBER BODY FAVORS BOND INCREASE

PARIS, Jan. 23. (UP)—The chamber of deputies' finance commission tonight, 11 to 5, approved the government's bill increasing the limit on issuance of short-term government bonds to 15,000,000,000 francs ($300,000,000). It had been 10,000,000,000 francs.

Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin assured the members the bill would not lead to inflation. It will be debated in the chamber Friday.

Legislators Urge Georgians To Support Birthday Balls

The Georgia legislature Wednesday called on the people of Georgia to support the plans for the President's Birthday balls and all members of house and senate were urged to attend the two Atlanta celebrations on January 31.

The resolution of support was introduced in the house by Representative Harrisfield, of Fulton county. Reciting the esteem in which Georgia holds President Roosevelt, the resolution describes the great work that is being done at Warm Springs and gave the legislature's official endorsement to the plans for the birthday balls.

Governor Talmadge, all statehouse officers and members of the legislature are asked to attend either the ball at the Piedmont Dining Club or the ball at the Capital City Club.

After passing the house the resolution was sent to the senate. The approval of the legislature for the birthday ball idea was shown further Wednesday when a number of members attached their name to a monster telegram of birthday greetings which will be sent to the president.

Arrangements were made by the Postal Telegraph Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company to attach names for telegrams at 25 cents each, every cent of the proceeds to be delivered through the president.

JOHN WHITE SEEKS TO LIMIT STEINER TO CITY PATIENTS

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the board of trustees of Steiner cancer hospital, will ask the finance committee of council at its meeting next Tuesday to approve a proposal to limit treatment of patients at the hospital to those residing within the city limits, barring those from Fulton county outside the city.

Councilman White pointed out Wednesday that although the county makes no contribution toward the expense of maintaining the hospital, totaling about $50,000 a year, approximately 24 per cent of Steiner patients are from the county.

Mayor Key recently went before the county commission and made a plea that the county meet part of the cost of all public hospitals which serve both city and county patients. The commissioners refused his request.

KEY, BARKER CONFER ON RELIEF WORKROOM

Miss Ada Barker, Fulton county relief administrator, conferred with Mayor Key Wednesday afternoon in regard to a proposal to establish a relief workroom for women at 23 North Pryor street.

Miss Barker suggested that the city remit taxes on this property while it is used for relief purposes and said the owners of the building were willing to allow the use of it, rent-free, for this purpose.

Mayor Key said he was sympathetic to the proposal to remit the taxes so long as the property was used exclusively for relief work, but pointed out that the question of state and county taxes would have to be taken up with the proper authorities.

HERE'S BIG NEWS FOR FAT FOLKS

Mrs. Jessie E. Forsyth, of Maitland, Fla., writes: "I am a dietitian and I reduced myself from 162 to 133 lbs. by taking only a moderate course of Kruschen Salts. I did not become haggard looking or cadaverous as many do who try those stupid 18-day diets. I also know a woman, 65 yrs. of age, who weighed 240 lbs. By the aid of Kruschen she reduced to 160. Before she couldn't walk her legs were so swollen. I met her the other day—she had walked from Maitland to Winter Park, a distance of 3 miles."

Reduce safely and sensibly by taking one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen (6 separate salts) in a cup of hot water every morning. In surprisingly short time you'll be overjoyed with your improved health—you'll feel years younger and look it—skin grows clearer—eyes grow brighter with the glorious energetic activity which fills your whole body. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a few cents.

Add the juice of half a lemon to make this daily health drink taste better—Kruschen is guaranteed.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 23.—(P)—Paraguayan forces today captured Fort Carandaty, important Bolivian position lying 60 kilometers northwest of the major Bolivian army base at Villa Montes, it was officially announced tonight.

The fall of Carandaty left Villa Montes, heavily fortified position, the only major obstacle still in the way of General Jose Estigarribia's drive at the Bolivian fields lying behind it.

Old Postoffice To Get
First Bath in 20 Years

The old postoffice building soon will be given its first "bath" since it was first built, more than 20 years ago.

Soap and brushes are expected to be started over the outside walls in about two weeks, according to an announcement made by Barge-Thompson Construction Company, which has been awarded the contract for the work. Other work will be done on the inside of the building, but the entire job is expected to be completed in less than the 250 days allowed.

BILBO LAUNCHES FIGHT ON SYKES NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(P)—Theodore G. Bilbo, new Mississippi senator who said in his election campaign he would "raise more hell in Washington than Huey P. Long," shot his first bolt today in a bitter attack against confirmation of Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, as a member of the communications commission.

Bilbo charged before the senate interstate commerce committee that Sykes was unfit to serve on the commission because as a member of the commission he had enlisted facilities of four radio stations to broadcast speeches of Bilbo's opponents just prior to the second primary election.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—(P)—Suddenly deciding to leave behind her 6-year-old daughter who has become the focus of a bitter legal wrangle, Ann Harding, stately blonde screen actress, packed her trunk tonight for a trip to China to recuperate from an illness that has kept her away from the cameras since last autumn.
Coincidental with announcement that she was starting soon for the orient, Miss Harding replied tartly to charges of her divorced husband, Harry Bannister, actor and writer, that she was "not a fit person" to have complete custody of their child, Jane. The charge is so ridiculous that there is nothing for the participation of Bannister, reported Gurney Newlin in commenting on the suit filed by Bannister seeking custody of the little girl.

"Broadway Bill" Stays At Rialto Fifth Week

Manager W. T. Murray, at the Rialto theater, decided Wednesday to keep "Broadway Bill" for another week, which will add the best Atlanta has ever known in length of run for a screen attraction.
"Mills of the Gods," the new May Robison picture, had been scheduled to start its engagement at the Rialto today. Last night, however, Manager Murray looked at the crowds flocking into his house to see "Broadway Bill" despite the fact that Wednesday was the twenty-eighth day of its run. And several dozen people voiced regret that the picture was leaving, because they had friends or families who hadn't yet seen it.
So arrangements were made to defer the showing of "Mills of the Gods" for another week. "Broadway Bill" will remain through next Thursday, which will be the thirty-sixth day of its consecutive showing, a record which equals that of "The Jazz Singer," which stayed at the old Metropolitan for six weeks of six days to the week.

5 Bandits Loot Mail Truck Of $129,000 in Currency

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 23.—(P)—In the largest postal robbery in the history of New England, five bandits today held up a United States mail truck and tonight apparently had escaped with $129,000 in currency.
The bandits were armed with machine guns and pistols.
Apparently in conformance with a plan, a sedan was driven ahead of the small truck forcing it to a halt. Two of the sedan's four occupants jumped out and leaped aboard the truck. At pistol point, Herbert B. Reid, 43, for 20 years a postal employee, who was transferring registered mail from the railroad station to the postoffice, was forced into the sedan, bound and blindfolded.
The truck then was conveyed by the sedan, out of the city to South Somerset, about 2 1/2 miles, where a fifth man waited in another car.
The truck was driven off a back road, the sedan behind it.
Reid was forced to surrender the key to the rear door of the mail truck. The loot was quickly transferred and the five sped away.
Reid told police that during the ride he was constantly menaced by his captors and that when he attempted to get a glimpse of them from beneath his blindfold, he was told: "Don't look at me or I'll let you have it."
One man sat on either side of him, he said, holding pistols against his ribs.
Upon departure of the bandits Reid succeeded in freeing himself and left the abandoned car. He walked about 200 yards to a main road, hailed a passing motorist and came to Fall River.

Atlanta Police Radio Now a Part Of Nationwide Anti-Crime Hookup

By CLIFF FLIGG.
The rabid radio fan, huddled close to his loud speaker Wednesday night, turned up the volume control to distinguish the words, "WPBY, Atlanta, calling WPBY, Birmingham."
"What's this?" the veteran tuner asked.
He could distinguish only what Atlanta was saying to Birmingham. It was something about the schedule being clear.
As a matter of fact, the radio fan, exercising his low wave bands, was listening to a portion of a coast-to-coast, Canada included, hookup. He was in on the ground floor of the experimental test work for the radio set-up which is proving such a jinx to national crooks and gangsters.
The police departments of the southeast have united with the rest of the nation and Canada in a radio network that might not furnish the sweet or hot music found on the long-wave networks, but the police short-wave network is making it hot for the criminals and enabling the police to do a sweet job of apprehending the criminals.

Work Done Quietly.
Little or nothing has been said until now about the participation of WPBY, the Atlanta police department radio station, in this national and international police radio hookup.
For the last few days regular schedules have been maintained by operators on the evening and morning watches on WPBY with all of the southeastern stations. Atlanta has filled the last remaining gap in the southeast, and, according to Kirk Simmons, evening watch operator at the Atlanta station, has enabled the network to operate to perfection.

The schedules are maintained with WPBY, Birmingham; WPGF, Jacksonville; WPDZ, Louisville; WPGF, Knoxville; WPGF, Asheville, and WPGW, Mobile.
Important Messages Relayed.
Important messages are relayed through these stations to and from Atlanta, included in the "broadcasts" are lookouts for desperate criminals, missing persons, stolen automobiles, and other information which might lead to the arrest of criminals.
Simmons explained that the Atlanta station is now operating on 150 watts and a frequency of 2414 kilocycles, but that efforts were being made to step up the power to 400 watts to increase the efficiency of the station.
The police network, according to Simmons, has made it possible to broadcast a description of a criminal to the police of every city in the United States and Canada within a few minutes.
Simmons stated that though schedules are not as yet being maintained between Atlanta and other Georgia cities for the exchange of police messages, it is expected that a schedule between Atlanta and Columbus will be in effect within a few days, and other Georgia cities, he said, perhaps will follow suit to increase the policing efficiency in the present concentrated war on crime in this section and to prepare for the state highway patrol which Governor Talmadge has advocated that the legislature approve.

HOWELL SUBMITS REPORT TO F. D. R.

Aviation Policy Group
Recommends 4,000-Plane
Aerial Defense.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(UP)—Chairman Clark Howell, of the federal aviation commission, today presented to President Roosevelt recommendations for building army and navy aircraft up to a total of 4,000 planes and construction of two new Macon type dirigibles.

The report embodied the commission's six months' study of all phases of American aviation and will be revealed in full when transmitted to congress by the president, probably next Tuesday.

Howell said the commission had suggested that one large dirigible be built for commercial purposes and another for military and naval training purposes. The commercial dirigible would be employed in a projected private transoceanic transport service.

The report recommends the abolition of the present distinction between primary and secondary air routes and urges that the president name a temporary commission to handle commercial aviation with that field eventually coming under jurisdiction of a reorganized interstate commerce commission.

The Howell study was undertaken to provide a basis for permanent development of all phases of American aviation as a result of the senate air mail investigation.

Bond of $1,000 Made In Insurrection Case

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Friends of Ward H. Rodgers, young FERA instructor, today arranged a $1,000 appeal bond to insure his release from jail following conviction on charges of attempting to incite sharecroppers against planters.

Meanwhile Mrs. Mary Connor Myers, agricultural adjustment administration attorney, studied the history of the southern cotton tenant system as she pursued her investigation into complaints that east Arkansas landlords had violated acreage reduction contracts through wholesale evictions of sharecroppers.

Rodgers was returned to a Harrisburg, Ark., jail following a sentence of six months and a fine of $500 imposed by a magistrate court jury. Rodgers planned, his friends said, to return to his teaching work in Poinsett county pending a review by the circuit court in March. He was convicted on specific charges of anarchy at Marked Tree.

TWO NEGROES GUILTY OF SLAYING OFFICER

GREENVILLE, S. C., Jan. 23.—(UP)—Cornell Luster and Harry Hill, negroes, were found guilty late today on charges of murdering a state highway patrolman, E. D. Milam.

The jury deliberated for an hour before returning its verdict of guilt, which carries a penalty of death in the electric chair. Sentence was deferred until motions for a new trial are heard Friday.

The negroes were accused of shooting and beating Milam to death when he attempted to quell a disturbance at a Christmas tree party near here on Christmas Day.

ALABAMA TO AID PULP PLANT PLAN

Governor, Solons Agree To Provide Long-Term Tax Exemption.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Development of the pine pulp paper industry in Alabama approached a step nearer realization today.

Governor Bibb Graves and sponsors of the industry reached a substantial agreement a plan to provide tax exemption for several years to new pulp paper plants in the state.

The governor signified he would approve a 10-year exemption if given assurance that a large plant would be located in Alabama.

A bill proposed in the lower house of the legislature would grant a five-year exemption, but Senator O. D. Carlton, of Marengo, introduced a bill in the upper chamber to allow 10 tax-free years. The latter measure is expected to take precedence.

A plant representing an investment of $8,000,000 to $12,000,000 may be located at Demopolis, Ala., according to reports.

Promoters of the plant venture believe that newspaper can be manufactured from pine pulp in the south cheaper than it can be made from spruce in New England and Canada.

It is the projected Alabama plant which James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner and chairman of the newspaper manufacturing committee of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, is believed to have referred to when he stated at a meeting in Rochester, N. Y., last week that details of a proposed $8,000,000 pulp paper mill for the south would be released in 30 days.

APPROVAL SEEN
ON COURT ENTRYRobinson Says Sufficient
Votes Assured; F. D. R.
Hits Norris ReservationWASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—
President Roosevelt today injected himself for the second time in the World Court contest, speaking out against the Norris reservation to give the senate control over questions to be submitted to the tribunal by the United States.Shortly afterward, Senator Robinson, leading the effort for American adherence to the court, predicted for the first time that he had sufficient votes to ratify the pending protocols and said a final vote might be reached this week.Opponents, however, also claimed they were gaining strength and said they were willing to co-operate to shorten debates, they did not believe a vote could be had before next week.The president's opposition to the reservation of Senator Norris requiring a two-thirds affirmative vote of the senate for submission of all questions to the court by this country, was expressed at a White House press conference.He said this was a definite limitation on the constitutional prerogatives of the president in his conduct of the government's foreign affairs.He made no comment on the reservation of Senator Vandenberg, declaring adherence would not mean our interference in internal affairs of other nations and barring others from taking a hand in purely domestic questions.This non-committal attitude of the White House gave strength to belief the administration would accept this reservation.After Senator Bailey had taken issue with his colleague, Senator Reynolds, and urged American adherence, and Senator Johnson had read an opposition statement from a Catholic university professor, Senator Robinson today served notice he would seek an agreement tomorrow to limit debate or fixing a time for a vote.Senate Body Favors Retention of RFCWASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A two-year extension of the life of the Reconstruction Corporation was approved today by the senate banking committee.In favorably reporting legislation, it made changes in the present law to limit the amount the RFC could put into mortgage-lending institutions to $100,000,000, instead of leaving the amount unlimited, and to extend the amount for aiding insurance companies from $60,000,000 to $75-000,000.Meanwhile, liberalization of the corporation's loans-to-industry program was recommended to the house banking committee by Stanley Reed, RFC counsel.Retaining the present $300,000,000 limit on industrial loans, Reed suggested that instead of "adequate security" the law be changed so that advances would "be so secured as to reasonably assure repayment."

NEWS GUILD LEADER

SEEKS TO QUIT BOARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The American Newspaper Guild announced today that Jonathan Eddy, its executive secretary, had asked permission of the guild's national executive committee to resign from the newspaper industry board.President Roosevelt's action of yesterday in denying the guild the right of appeal, Eddy said in a statement issued through the guild, "makes my continued presence on the board tantamount to condoning a fraud upon the working newspaper people of this country."$900,000 CONTRACT
IS PLACED BY TVAPITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announced today receipt of a $900,000 contract from the Tennessee Valley Authority for two waterwheel generators and auxiliary equipment.The generators, each of 56,000
KW-A capacity, will be placed in the Norris dam power plant on the Clinch river in Tennessee. About 500,000 man hours of work will be needed for the contract and delivery will be made at the end of the year.

STRIKE PARLEY FAILS

AT HUNTSVILLE MILL

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Jan. 23.—(AP)— Conferences between mill workers and management failing, the Merrimack Manufacturing Company plant here was idle today with approximately 1,200 workers remaining on strike.Neither officers of the local of the United Textile Workers of America nor the management of the mill would make a statement yesterday after a conference which failed to bring an agreement and resumption of the big plant.

TWO CHILDREN KILLED

AS FIRE BURNS HOME

PARKERS PRAIRIE, Minn., Jan.
23.—(UP)—Two children burned to death today when fire, caused by an overheated stove, destroyed the home of Robert Welch.The victims were Wallace Welch,
3, and his infant brother, Lawrence,
1. They were trapped by the flames and their mother, who was outside when the fire started, was unable to aid them. It was 85 degrees below zero when the fire started.

ITALIAN REPRESSION

IN AEGEAN REPORTED

ATHENS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Greek newspapers said today many persons were killed and injured when a revolt of Greek inhabitants of the Italian-owned island of Kalymnos was quelled by aviators and marine detachments.The press gave as a basis of its reports stories allegedly told by those who fled to territory owned by Greece.Earlier reports from the same sources said Italian warships were en route to Kalymnos, one of the Dodecanese island group in the Aegean sea.Marion Talley's Sister
Spikes Movie ReportsKANSAS CITY, Jan. 23.—(AP)—
Miss Florence Talley, sister of Marion Talley, today denied reports that the singer was going to enter motion pictures."I can say positively that she is not going into pictures," she said.
"She is on the way here, but I cannot say when she will arrive."

SHIPBUILDER ASKED TO WAIVE IMMUNITY

'Missionary Work' Charged to New York Firm by Munitions Prober.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(UP)—Chairman Gerald P. Nye, of the senate munitions inquiry, called burly, white-haired Clinton Lloyd Bardo to the witness stand today and asked him to sign a waiver of immunity.

It was the first time any such request had been made of a munitions witness and took the former head of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation completely by surprise. He asked for 24 hours to think it over.

Nye's surprise move climaxed a session at which it was developed that: 1. The New York Shipbuilding Corporation employed an agent to do "missionary work" when legislation involving increased naval appropriations was before congress. 2. The committee wants to question Errett Lobban Cord, automobile and airplane manufacturer and principal owner of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, who has been puzzled by his absence from the country. Cord's attorneys said he went abroad because of kidnap threats, and would return when the East Point case would be cleared up for questioning, they said.

Nye declined to discuss his action. Bardo said:

Sought Arms Expansion.
"It's the first time such a request has ever been made of me. I have no apprehension of testifying, however, I'd like to think this over."

The testimony on the company's "missionary work" was by Harry R. Humphries, former Washington representative of the firm, who said he attended all hearings by senate and house committees on naval building legislation and sent frequent reports to his employers.

Stephen A. Raushenbush, chief committee investigator, introduced several of the reports showing Humphries' efforts to obtain favorable action on the 1927 cruiser construction program.

"Will continue efforts in the senate to secure additional cruiser appropriations," said one dated January 8, 1927.

Meanwhile Cord's name will appear frequently during the inquiry, Nye said.

Belgrano Speaks.

"We will have some questions," he explained, "that only Cord can answer."

While the senate committee continued its hearing the house military affairs committee heard Frank Belgrano Jr., national commander of the American Legion, urge enactment of universal conscription and drafting of industry and capital as a means of taking the profit out of war.

"The Legion is interested in any legislation which will take the profits out of war," Belgrano said. "We do not want a recurrence of the shame and disgrace that followed the last great conflict when it was revealed that there was a war-time profiteer for every white cross in Flanders fields. The theory of the Legion is that if you take the profit out of war there won't be any war."

BOSTON TERRIER, BELIEVED M.A.D., SOUGHT BY POLICE

While East Point police were engaged in a frantic search Wednesday for a Boston terrier that bit the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rowland, of 517 Park street, East Point, Pasteur treatment for rabies was being administered to the child by Dr. Carl T. Martin.

The dog was given Rowland as a gift a short time ago. The child was playing with the animal Sunday when it suddenly turned upon her and inflicted severe lacerations. Members of the family ran to the little girl's aid, but before they could seize the dog it ran away.

Fearful that the animal may be afflicted with rabies, Rowland appealed to Chief of Police Joe Miller, of East Point, to search for it. In the meantime, Dr. Martin, the attending physician, advised the Pasteur treatment and the first injection was given Wednesday.

The dog is described as being a black and white Boston terrier, with screw tail. If found, East Point police should be notified at once, as they desire to place the animal under observation to determine if it is suffering from rabies.

HOPKINS ASSAILS TOWNSEND'S PLAN

program broad latitude in setting up requirements that the states would have to meet before receiving the $15 a month from the government with which to match their own old-age pension contributions.

Hopkins testified before the house ways and means committee as did Secretary Perkins, who echoed the relief administrator's opinion of the Townsend $200-a-month program with another adjective—"fantastic."

Without otherwise expressing his opinion, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, demanded full and open debate on the Townsend plan.

One brief word about the administration's security program came from the White House. President Roosevelt, at his press conference if he thought the prospective pay roll tax would retard business recovery, said in a single word that it would not.

Details of the administration's measure, calling for immediate joint federal-state contributions to pay persons over 65 a maximum of around $30 a month were supplied by Miss Perkins and Hopkins at the house committee hearing.

Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, and Edwin E. Witte, executive director of the economic security committee, testified before the senate finance committee.

Scholar Hastings, republican, Delaware, a member of the finance committee, said the amount carried in the bill would be inadequate to care for those estimated by the administration to be needy and aged. Wagner said the government should increase its appropriation as the states came forward.

Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, ranking member of the ways and means committee, said full hearings should be given and the views of persons outside the administration obtained.

Tolling Seen.
"We recognize that unemployment is not actually insurable," said Hopkins. "We recognize that in a depression of this kind, no unemployment insurance would stand up."

"This plan does nothing for those who are now unemployed. It is expected that they will be reached under the work relief plan now before congress."

"What do you think of the Townsend plan?" asked Representative Knutson, republican, Minnesota. "It's cockeyed. Our committee gave consideration to it, but we concluded that congress could think of 40 different ways to use that much money that would be better than that."

"Is there anything more you would care to say about it?" asked Representative Treadway.

"The proponents of the Townsend plan are trying to put the rest of us in the position of not being in favor of old-age pensions," Hopkins said. "Some of us have been fighting for them since long before this was ever heard of."

For firms that have their own old-age pension and unemployment funds, Miss Perkins said the plan proposed would require that they either make their plans supplementary to state plans or that they bring their own plans under those of the states.

"If they had old-age pensions in effect when the men were hired," she said, "they would be required to pay them. If the pensions were less than those provided by the law, they would have to bring them up to the legal level."

measure, claiming it would end the dole and save the federal government billions in relief funds now being expended under its present system.

Democratic insurgents, who forced the liberalized rule, which allows amendments to be offered to three important sections but preserves intact the $4,880,000,000 lump-sum for the president, withheld their fire for the fight tomorrow.

After an hour of debate, Republican Leader Smith, of New York, forced two votes on the amended rule. On the first test of the 322 democrats, 238 voted for the procedure, while 35 joined 97 republicans and 10 progressives. On the second vote, 40 democrats, 96 republicans and 10 progressives, backed 249 democrats. Attacking what he termed "incompetency" in the handling of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund by Secretary Ickes, Representative Taber, republican, New York, a member of the appropriations committee, first told the house of the administration's plan to pay the 3,500,000 employables $50 a month.

Basing his statement on testimony given by Rear Admiral C. J. Peoples, chief of the treasury department's procurement division, Taber said:

"It is proposed that the three and a half million men be paid at the rate of $50 a month. It will cost $2,100,000,000 a year. It will take a billion to keep them at work. The administration has no definite program. They just imagine they have."

In hearings before the appropriations committee, Admiral Peoples said:

"The whole purpose here is for a security wage rate averaging about $50 per month."

President Roosevelt is empowered to fix the rate, which would be larger than the dole now received by those on relief rolls, but not large enough to keep workers from accepting private employment.

Saves up to a Cupful of Gasoline on every cold start

Think of it! Every time you start a cold motor you may actually save up to a cupful (8 oz.) of gasoline for extra mileage. When you realize that the average car starts 15 times a day—and many business cars up to 50 times a day—you realize how this saving counts up in the long run.

SO sensitive are most motor cars today that a drop of only ten degrees in temperature makes "choking" necessary when starting.

And "choking" is wasteful! In fact, tests show that while your choke is out, your engine "eats" up to 5 times as much gasoline!

To avoid wasteful choking, you need a gasoline that starts instantly and warms up quickly. That is exactly what Shell engineers have accomplished with Super-Shell Gasoline.

It's a concentrated motor fuel of such even volatility that every drop vaporizes more completely. It starts cold motors instantly and with a very minimum of choking. Warming up is twice as fast with Super-Shell as with ordinary gasoline.

Obviously this saves gasoline. In fact, with Super-Shell, you may actually save up to a cupful of gasoline on every cold start! Try Super-Shell in your car. It sells for the price of "regular" gasoline at all Shell Stations.

SHELL'S DEVELOPMENT IN THE SOUTH

That Shell is confident of the increasing business and industrial importance of Georgia and other Southern States is evidenced by the vast extent of Shell's growing investment in the South.

Shell's Southern interests, already totaling many millions of dollars, represent not only great oil fields—but refineries, pipe lines, bulk plants, terminals, marine depots and service stations.

Shell is proud to be an integral part of Southern progress and is doubly gratified at the increasing loyalty of Southern motorists toward Shell products.

GRIFFITH SEEKS WINTER LEAGUE TO TRAIN BOYS

Washington Owner Advocates Florida Play for Rookies.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—An additional winter training season for major league baseball players and winter leagues—possibly two in Florida—as proving grounds for rookies, today was advocated by Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators.

Griffith described the plan as one "I long have wanted tried out," and said winter training for certain ball players would solve a problem facing every major league team.

"Because of the major league rule," he said, "barring any major leaguer from play after October 31, the winter training and the winter leagues in Florida would have to come under the jurisdiction of the two major leagues."

"Also, it probably would be necessary to amend this rule to permit the players to be identified with the league, since the stock contract offered by all major league clubs carries the clause prohibiting play after October 31."

SENATOR CLUB.

"I know I could provide an entire baseball team from among the rookies who are not quite ready for the majors. I think every club could do the same thing. Every year we have to send back to the minor leagues young players who need only a little more of the right kind of work."

"If we established a winter league in Florida, this would be the proving ground for the youngsters. It would hasten their development and, in making competition for team places so much keener it would, at the same time, perhaps improve the whole caliber of major league play."

"This particular district of southern Florida, for example, very well could have two teams, a Miami and a Miami Beach club. They would play better than Class Double-A baseball and as a consequence provide just one more attraction for the thousands of tourists who winter here."

10 PITCHERS.

"This year I am taking 10 young pitchers from the minor leagues to our training camp at Biloxi, perhaps only one may be good enough to stay, one or two others may be good enough to farm out and the rest will have to be given some good advice and a ticket back home."

"From the players that have to be farmed out to teams under control of individual major league clubs (in our case either at Chattanooga, Selma, Ala., or Albany, N. Y.) we could expect to staff the teams in the winter league. Some of these players still will be short of the standard requirements after a season in our farms. If they are worth keeping, they'll probably be worth sending to Florida for a season of winter work."

In discussing Washington's chances for the coming year, Griffith said he was optimistic and that "Washington is a very good ball club." However, he said, anything can happen between now and then. Last year, for example, Washington looked like a stand-out, he said, but everything that could happen to a ball club, did happen.

Down the Alley

Gresham's Soda Company turned in some splendid games to upset the formidable Bliek's Bowlin team five, Wednesday evening, and aided the Blue Ribbon Beer team's take the league lead. Blue Ribbon Beer won two from Piel's Beer.

Ed Glading, star southpaw bowler of the Businessmen's league, hit the pins in the right spot to collect massive series of 396 and was very instrumental in setting the former leaders down to a three-game loss, as he bowled games of 118, 127, 124 for the Gresham team. Gresham's had the high team game of the evening, 501. Hobart Crowe and T. G. Allen had splendid sets, also.

With Alan Liebler, Stuart Murray, Charlie Ross firing the big guns, the Blue Ribbon team had no difficulty in winning two from Piel's Beer.

L. B. Outler had the high three-game set for the league with games of 119, 128, 130, for a 377 set, as his team, DeFoor & Austin, won two from Dale Shirt Company.

Atlanta Baking Company won two from Alliance Printing Company; Charlie Tillman had the big set for the bankers, 338.

Coca-Cola Club, Bell System, Power Club men and ladies, Junior Chamber of Commerce men and ladies will occupy most of the alleys at Bliek's bowling center with regular games this morning.

Interest in the "less than 100 average bowlers duckpin tourney" is growing by leaps and bounds, with several more bowlers signing Wednesday it is expected that more than 100 bowlers will take part in the contest, which excludes all bowlers who have averages of 100 or better for the current season.

Players participating in more than one league will use their combined average for all leagues in computing their eligibility.

Celebrities Attend Sportsman's Dinner

In the cold morning of yesterday there were the final heats in the Southern amateur field trials at All-Benny, Georgia.

And then a rush back through the night to arrive tired, sleepy and late for the sportsman's dinner, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. It was a thrill at that to hurry back from the dogs and report in and see Granny Rice, Bobby Jones, Frank Thomas, Wallace Wade, Harry Mehre, Coach Bill Alexander and others whose names have decorated headlines and been strung across the tops of newspaper pages.

Seeing Bobby Jones is always pleasant. I never see him but that I think of all the miles he traveled by train and ship to conquer the golfing world, playing on a hundred different courses and bending them all to his will.

And Grantland Rice—the Nashville, Tenn.-O-See, boy who used to play a nice game of baseball for Vanderbilt and who began writing such great verse in his sports column that he set a style which existed for years. There is a managing editor in Nashville yet who recalls that when Grantland Rice had left they did not ask the man applying for the sports writing job if he knew sports. They asked him could he make a rhyme.

Grantland Rice is a grand person. So far as I know he has no enemies. He has never said or written anything which would wound feelings. He was a great friend of the late Frank L. Stanton, the man whose column in The Constitution was nationally famous for years.

Rice was working in Atlanta then and he and Stanton met frequently. The story goes that at the time Stanton's famous song appeared, containing the lines:

"This old world we're living in
Is mighty hard to beat.
You get a thorn with every rose,
But ain't the roses sweet?"

The story goes that Rice decided he had an improvement on the poem and one day he recited it to Stanton, injuring the old gentleman greatly for a day or so. Rice's version went:

"This old world we're living in
Is surely on the blink.
You get a thorn with every rose,
And don't the roses stink."

The members of the sports writing profession owe a great deal to Granny Rice. He has been one of the game's finest gentlemen and ablest writers. And his column, after more than 20 years, carries the widest appeal of any sports column in the newspapers today.

THE FOOTBALL COACHES.

It was fine seeing Wallace Wade, who used to terrorize with his Alabama teams just as Frank Thomas is carrying on today with the same old job.

The pictures of the Alabama-Stanford Rose Bowl game were illuminating. Watching the game I had thought that Howell, on his first touchdown, when he dashed through the line for five yards, had broken through two men almost at the line. He himself did not recall just what he had done.

The pictures show that he pivoted, leaping high in the air and twisting around them. The pictures also show Jimmy Angelich's "fumble." A Stanford man batted it out of his hands.

Harry Mehre and Coach W. A. Alexander and all the others talked with Thomas and with each other. Thomas did the big thing this year, winning the Rose Bowl. It reflected much credit on all southern football and his associates are grateful. Even though they do wish he'd ease up just a little. They are afraid of him despite the fact he will lose so many men.

GOING TO THE DOGS.

Going to the dogs in Albany is a very pleasant and entertaining task. Covering the field trials there always leaves one in need of a long rest. They are very hospitable there and I don't know why it is but they consider bedtime at the field trial to be about an hour or so before dawn. At which time they go out to the trials.

Just the other night this correspondent finally succumbed and went off to sleep shortly after midnight. At 5 o'clock he awakened to find the conversation still

HURLER HERE TO TALK TERMS WITH OFFICIALS

Sees Cracker Club Greatly Improved at Bat. Likes Youngsters.

By Jimmy Jones.

Harry Kelley, the delayed Christmas present that Judge Kenesaw Landis, in the role of Santa Claus, deposited on the Crackers' doorstep, came to Atlanta yesterday to talk over his 1935 contract.

Due to the excitement surrounding the sportsman's banquet at the Capital City Club and a special showing of the Alabama-Stanford Rose Bowl pictures, Kelley and Earl Mann didn't have much time to talk baseball.

They probably will get together today, however. Kelley, who is taking a little vacation from his winter work in Arkansas, plans to remain here a couple of days, or probably until he and Mann get together on the highly important terms of the contract.

IMPORTANT MAN.

Kelley is one of the most important Crackers to be signed, and the fact that he figures he missed an opportunity for advancement to the big leagues may make him a little hesitant on the salary situation.

The Crackers' ace pitcher, however, showed no sign of being disgruntled over the turn of baseball fortune yesterday.

The stocky Arkansan was an amiable and agreeable as even, and went to see the special showing of the football pictures, during which he shook hands with Hughes Spalding, one of the Cracker directors, and chatted with newspapermen.

DOESN'T BLAME ATLANTA.

"I was a little disappointed at first, I reckon, but baseball is baseball, and I don't blame Atlanta at all," Harry stated. He said he hoped to win his usual 18 or 20 games in the league this year.

Later, he entered the first conference in salary with Mann, and all indications were that Kelley would become the 14th player to be signed for 1935 before leaving the city.

Harry was playing enthusiastically about the Cracker pitching staff, particularly some of the younger pitchers.

"I like Schmidt, Martin, Cobb and some of the other youngsters," he stated. And he was with Jim Lindsey long enough to like his work also. Lynn Nelson, the other regular of the staff, was placed on the voluntarily retired list about the time Kelley came here from Memphis last year, but is said to have regained his health. Nelson will be reinstated soon.

MORE POWER.

"It seems that the club has more batting power than we had at the close of last season, also," Kelley said. "I don't know anything about Harris and Eastender, the new outfielders, except what ball players have told me. And all these reports have been good."

Harry arrived in the chilly Atlanta weather yesterday morning and was met at the station by Earl Mann. "As I said before, there is little comparison between Atlanta and most of the other minor league cities from a baseball standpoint. If I am to stay in the minors, I want to stay with Atlanta," he added.

Harry also liked the idea of going to Florida to train. He figures two weeks down there will help the club. Kelley reiterated that he was going to turn his kid brother, Alfred Kelley, also a pitcher, over to Atlanta when he is graduated from high school.

HIS KID BROTHER.

"This kid has a real future and I don't want him to sign with a club that won't give him a break," he pointed out. Kelley didn't say as much, but it was apparent that he thought his staying at Memphis so long was detrimental to his own chances for advancement to the big leagues.

Neither Delancey nor any of the three men to whom he had entrusted the animal had been bitten but they decided to take treatment for fear that saliva from the dog's mouth had possibly entered scratches on their hands. The catcher said today he felt no ill effects from the treatment after taking nine doses. He has 12 more to take.

Delancey Takes Pasteur Treatment

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Bill Delancey, star catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, revealed here today that he is taking the Pasteur treatment as a precaution.

Delancey was given a hunting dog recently by his teammate, Burgess Whitehead, the infielder. The dog became sick and finally had to be killed. An examination of its head showed it was suffering from rabies. Neither Delancey nor any of the three men to whom he had entrusted the animal had been bitten but they decided to take treatment for fear that saliva from the dog's mouth had possibly entered scratches on their hands. The catcher said today he felt no ill effects from the treatment after taking nine doses. He has 12 more to take.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Kiki Cuyler, outfielder with the Chicago Cubs, signed his 1935 contract today. He was the twelfth Cub to come to terms.

'Ambassador' Ruth Praised by Saito

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Saito, here for an address, today referred to Babe Ruth, who recently completed a baseball barnstorming tour of Japan as a "splendid ambassador of good will."

"I think it would be a good thing," Saito said, "to scrap all our warships and let our baseball teams cross the ocean and fight out difficulties."

SARAZEN, HAGEN TOP ENTRY LIST

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Led by such golfing notables as Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, some 150 of the country's outstanding shot-makers will tie off here tomorrow for the first half of 36-hole qualifying tests of the annual San Francisco match play open tournament.

Of the huge list of professional and amateur stars on hand, only three are exempt from a tilt with par 72 of the tricky Presidio Club course. They are Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion; Olin Dutra, national open title holder, and Paul Runyan, Professional Golfers' Association champion.

Tom Creary, who won the San Francisco tournament last year, also qualifies automatically. He is not expected to play, however.

Tomorrow's hundred low scorers will play another 18 Friday for the 29 or 32 qualifying places open. Match play rounds of 18 holes will start Saturday with 36-hole finals next Monday.

Sixty-two amateurs, mostly from this section, filed entries. The professionals will battle for a purse of $4,000, with the winner taking $1,250. Favorites, in addition to Dutra, Sarazen, Hagen, Little and Runyan, are Harold McSpaden, of Kansas City, winner of the recent Pasadena and Sacramento open tournaments; Victor Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J.; and Johnny Revolta, of Milwaukee, who devoted top money in the Los Angeles open; Mark Fry, of Oakland; the Zimmerman brothers, Emory and Al, of Portland; Kay Laffoon, of Chicago; Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill.; and Jim Demaret, of Gileston.

The scene of the tournament is the home course of the nation's leading amateur, Little. He and the club professional, Larry Brazil, are joint holders of the course record, 67 five under par.

Fendley Collins, wrestling coach at Michigan State, will not do much work with this year's team. He has been confined to a hospital for three months with a spinal injury.

'It Must Be a Trick--' Thomas Says to Alex

"What Did You Have That Tech Team Keyed Up With in 1933?" Bama Coach Asks Him.

By Jimmy Jones.

They were talking about keyed-up football players and inspired competitors in all branches of sport yesterday.

Frank Thomas, the chubby Alabama coach who is sitting on top of the world, so to speak, had just finished explaining the standout plays of the Alabama-Stanford game to a roomful of celebrities at the Ansley hotel.

There were many notable football coaches in that room, as well as Grantland Rice, the famous sports writer; Bobby Jones and Chandler Egan, the golfers; Harry Kelley, the great baseball pitcher of the Crackers; and numerous others gathered there in the pine room of the Ansley.

Wallace Wade, Alabama's first great football coach, now holding the head coach's job at Duke; Coach Bill Alexander, of Tech, and Thomas, of Alabama, represented the nationally famous football coaches.

Thomas and Alexander got to discussing various ways and means of keying up football players.

"Alex" had just watched several super-plays of the Rose Bowl game, such as Howell's "Immelman" twist out of the hands of three Stanford tacklers on his five-yard drive for Alabama's first touchdown; Howell's 67-yard run; how Demjanovich took out Moscrip and Riley Smith's beautiful block of Bobby Grayson.

Coach Thomas was telling how a high school coach of his acquaintance out in Indiana had trained his sprinters by pacing them with greyhounds, also by putting weights in their shoes in practice as handicaps and by camouflaging the high-jump and vaulting bar with black and white paint to create an optical illusion.

It was recalled that some of the old-time athletes—particularly the prizefighters—used to steel their nerves with sychonine tablets and other stimulants equally as powerful. When they got all hopped up on this, they'd ram their heads through a brick wall.

"By the way, Alex," Coach Thomas, the Rose Bowl coach, inquired suddenly, "what was that Tech football team of yours doped up with in 1933?"

He referred to the famous 1933 Tech team that won the national championship. Thomas said he didn't know, but he said he was sure it was a trick.

SPORTS IN DIXIE PRAISED BY RICE

Leading Figures Attend First Annual Banquet Here.

By Jimmy Jones.

"The South in the Saddle"—And it seemed that all was right with the world.

One of the cleverest of Grantland Rice's poems of 1934 was the theme of his talk last night before the Junior Chamber of Commerce's first sportsman's banquet last night at the Capital City Club. And the south was in the saddle for one night, anyway.

The Murfreesboro, Tenn., boy who came to Atlanta to write sports in 1902 at the magnificent sum (as he expressed it) of $8 a week, was the honored speaker at the dinner. And the man who subsequently became the nation's greatest sports authority and writer; the man who gave to sports writing the metric, as well as the literary touch, gave the south due credit for its great conquests in the field of athletics during recent years.

PRAISES MEHRE, THOMAS.

He mentioned the University of Georgia's fifth straight victory over Yale in football—the only time this feat has been accomplished by any team—in referring to Coach Harry Mehre, of the Athens Bulldogs.

He referred to Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama's Rose Bowl champions, who sat near him, as having done the greatest job of football coaching of the year in bringing to deep south football's greatest honor.

He spoke of Bobby Jones, who sat on his right side, as the greatest golfer of them all and a man who has done more for the oldest of games than any of the pioneers in that department.

He mentioned Tulane's victory over Pop Warner's Temple Owls, which he termed the outstanding football team of the east. It was about Alabama and Tulane that Rice wrote his "South in the Saddle." And who will forget those cheering lines written by either of these games were played.

Grantland Rice did not overlook a thing from the south's angle. And the strains of "Dixie," which welcomed his joint introduction by Robert F. Maddox and O. B. Keeler seemed most appropriate.

The guests—there must have been near a hundred—stood and cheered as Colonel Maddox introduced one celebrity after another. Maddox, the toastmaster for the occasion, spoke of Bryan Grant and Charlie Yates, among others, as having brought credit to Atlanta in the world of sports.

CLASSIC WORDS.

But O. B. Keeler's introduction of Rice was a masterpiece in itself. He emphasized the beauty of Rice's poetry, which is really among the best in literature.

He spoke of Rice's classic contributions along this line—his immortal coinage of the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame." Rice really made famous Rockne's famous backfield of 1924—the quartet of Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden—with his parody on the Four Horsemen.

Listeners thought of other great poems of his, that dealing with the death of Ring Lardner, the March of Notre Dame, written in glorification of Rockne's last great team—that of 1930—Carideo, Schwartz, Savoldi, Brill, Cannon, Moynihan and others.

There were three Rose Bowl coaches in that audience—William A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech; Wallace Wade, of Duke, and Thomas, of Alabama.

When Rice referred to the Alabama team of 1934 as "one of the most beautifully coached teams I ever saw," and of Dixie Howell, Alabama's great back, as the "best backfield man I ever saw," they knew that he was speaking sincerely.

Rice, ever a fair-minded commentator, did not pick Dixie Powell on his All-American selection for Collier's, but that was before the Rose Bowl game. He released himself along this line last night.

"The south did a swell job along all

WOMAN IS HUNTED AS 'HUMAN BUTCHER'

LAUREL, Miss., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Officers tonight worked on information received today which they believe may lead to identification of the woman victim of a "human butcher," whose dismembered legs were found wrapped in sacks in a wooded area north of Sandersville last Sunday. Pursuing the new clue with vigor, sheriff's and police officers of two counties were attempting to trace the movements of a woman who left her home at Vauxburg, Miss., not far from the scene of the gruesome find. Saturday supposedly on a journey that was to have taken her to a west coast state.

My Cookery News Notes

By RUTH CHAMBERS

Editor's Note: The writer is Ruth Chambers, staff member of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, recognized authority on cookery of all kinds, and especially meat cookery and the planning of meals around the meat course. Experimental cookery has developed a good deal of new information about cooking meat, which is contrary to old ideas. This series of articles will give our readers this new information in helpful form, and will also give a series of excellent recipes and suggestions for serving the meat course of the meal.

HAM LENDS SELF TO VARIETY OF USES

Why not plan to have ham for dinner tonight? It is easily prepared and has a splendid flavor which helps to stir up sluggish appetites. When served a little differently it will interest the entire family.

It isn't always necessary to use the center slices of ham, for there are many fine dishes which may be prepared from the end cuts. When cooked in combination with potatoes as suggested in ham with peanut butter, you have the main dish for an oven dinner. Since the oven will be in use to bake the ham, have a dessert like apple dumplings, which can be baked at the same time. Add a green salad to your menu and your dinner will be easy to get, easy to serve, and decidedly easy to eat.

Baked Ham an Economy.

A baked ham is an economy because of the number of ways the leftover ham can be used. The ham roll, for example, is easily prepared and so good looking that there won't be one single crumb left at the end of the meal.

Other ways of using cooked ham are: A salad made with crisp vegetables and hard-cooked eggs mixed with the favorite salad dressing; creamed ham served over piping hot toast or in patty shells; ham croquettes which are always good and may be shaped in the morning and stored in the refrigerator until just a few minutes before frying them in deep hot lard. Serve these with baked potatoes, buttered cabbage and a fruit salad which will take the place of both a salad and a dessert.

Ham With Peanut Butter.

Two cups diced, cooked ham; 3 tablespoons peanut butter; 3-4 cup bread crumbs, 2 cups diced cooked potatoes, 1-2 cup diced celery, 2 cups

NRA Moves To Halt Lumber Code Revolt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(UP)—The NRA tonight threatened government administration of the lumber code in an attempt to halt a proposed revolt of southeastern hardwood manufacturers.

The action followed adoption of a resolution at Jacksonville, Fla., last week declaring that southern lumbermen found it "impossible" to continue under the industry's code.

A letter from W. Averell Harriman, NRA administrative officer, made public tonight, said that if the administrative agency for the southeastern hardwood lumbermen resigned from the code, the NRA "will immediately take such action as is necessary to install government authority to the extent found proper to administer the code."

Thin White Sauce, Salt, Pepper.

Arrange alternate layers of ham and potatoes in a greased baking dish. Melt the peanut butter in the white sauce and pour over the layers, lifting gently with a fork so that all may be covered with the sauce. Sprinkle with crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 minutes.

Baked Ham Slice.

One slice ham, cut three-fourths inch thick, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, milk to cover ham.

Place ham in casserole or covered baking dish. Rub with mustard and brown sugar. Pour over the ham just enough milk to cover. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for one hour. Serve with glazed bananas and pineapple, another oven dish.

Glazed Bananas With Pineapple.

Three bananas, 3 slices canned pineapple, granulated sugar. Cut bananas and pineapple slices in halves. Arrange in a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderate oven about 10 minutes or until sugar is melted. Serve with meat.

Ham Plantation Style.

One pound sliced ham, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 2 cups cold diced sweet potatoes, 1-2 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons butter, 12 marshmallows.

Grill the ham until it is brown on both sides. Place in oval casserole, cutting the ham, if necessary. Sprinkle with sugar, cover with the sweet potatoes, add the boiling water and dot with butter. Arrange a layer of marshmallows over the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 20 minutes or until the ham is cooked and the marshmallows are delicately browned. A few cloves may be stuck in the ham if desired.

Ham Roll.

One recipe pastry, 2 cups minced cooked ham, 1-2 small onion, 1-2 pint, 1 cup thick white sauce, 3 hard-cooked eggs.

Roll out the pastry in a rectangular shape. Mix the ham with the other ingredients except the eggs which should be placed lengthwise across one end of the pastry. Cover pastry with the ham mixture, roll up starting with the end on which the eggs have been placed. Place in a shallow pan in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 35 minutes until nicely browned. Slice and serve with tomato sauce.

Judge Collins Named In 3 New Indictments

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Three new indictments against E. J. Collins, indicted and suspended state criminal court judge, were returned today by the grand jury.

Two of the true bills charged malpractice; the third alleged conspiracy with a professional bondsman.

Judge Collins was suspended from office by Governor Sholtz last Sunday following the return of indictments charging the jurist with embezzlement and accepting a bribe.

The judge, after return of the initial indictment, entered a blanket denial of wrongdoing.

CAUCUS ON PATRONAGE CALLED BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—House democrats—in a disgruntled mood over what they say is the poor way some New Deal chiefs have handled patronage—today forced their leaders to call a caucus for tomorrow night to discuss the matter.

Representative Taylor, of Colorado, chairman of the caucus, was presented today by Representative McFarlane, of Texas, with 75 names calling for such a meeting. Under the rules, Taylor had to call it since only 25 names are necessary.

MILK LICENSES AIDED DAIRYMEN OF NATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(UP)—Federal milk licenses added almost $15,000,000 to dairy farmers' incomes in 1934, the AAA estimated today.

During 138 days in which the license was effective in Savannah, Ga., it netted an estimated $16,323. The largest reported increase was $3,424,207 in Chicago, with $3,176,220 in Boston, $2,257,480 in Detroit, and $2,725,073 in Los Angeles.

Federal Bonds Tax Favored in Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Members of both parties in both houses of congress today were backing a proposal to make federal and state bonds subject to taxation.

The supporters drew encouragement from word that in an executive session of the house ways and means committee yesterday, Secretary Morgenthau had made it clear the treasury supports the move. It never has been formally requested of congress, however, by President Roosevelt.

PRESIDENT TO ATTEND INITIATION OF SON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 23.—(AP)—One month from today, if his present plans materialize, President Roosevelt will return to his alma mater to witness the initiation of his son, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., into the Ivy Club, one of the most exclusive at Harvard College.

The president, Harvard '04, became a member of the club in 1902. His son, now a sophomore at the college, has just been elected. The Ivy is one of the seven "Final Clubs" at the institution and membership in one precludes membership in any other. The club is one of Harvard's oldest and, in its membership, one of the most famous.

Never Treat A Cough Lightly

It Might Be Dangerous

Never send a boy to do a man's work. That's why we say to you, go today to Miner & Carter Drug Store or Yates & Milton Pharmacy and get a bottle of that famous, smooth, creamy, crescented Emulsion known to pharmacists as Bronchiline Emulsion. It's a medicine for grown ups for coughs that hang on and never seem to let go. No sweet syrupy concoction that simply plays with a cough—it no dope or habit-forming drug—it quickly strikes at the source of the trouble. Get a bottle and enjoy a good night's rest.

are blended and cross-blended.

Just what is meant by cross-blending tobaccos... and how does it make a cigarette milder and taste better...

Well, in blending you take two or more tobaccos and mix them together—a rather simple process. But cross-blending goes a step further...

IN making Chesterfields we take Bright tobacco from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. We take Burley tobacco from Kentucky and Tennessee, and tobacco from Southern Maryland.
Then in addition to these home-grown tobaccos we take tobacco grown in Turkey and Greece.

We balance these mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos with the right amounts and the right kinds of aromatic Turkish.

Then, instead of just mixing the tobaccos together, we blend and cross-blend them so that all the different flavors go together into one full flavor
—the Chesterfield taste that so many smokers like.

Cross-blending tobaccos as it is done in Chesterfields gives the cigarette a pleasing taste and aroma—they're mild and yet They Satisfy.

American Opera Premiere Holds Interest of Atlantans Today

By Sally Forth.

MRS. ALEXANDER H. McLANAHAN, of New York, always commands more than a passing interest in Atlanta, where she is known as the former Frances Gurr, only daughter of Mrs. Fort Land, and one of the most beautiful girls the state has ever produced. In addition to her striking beauty, she possesses marked musical talent and ability, which she lends freely and graciously to further charitable and cultural affairs sponsored by the smart set in which she moves.

Frances' latest venture for sweet charity's sake is her assumption of the chairmanship for the premiere of the American opera, "The Pasha's Garden," this afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera house. The performance, which will mark the operatic debut of Helen Jepson, is for the benefit of the Southern Women's Educational Alliance, which was organized 11 years ago to provide educational and vocational guidance for young men and young women, particularly in rural districts of the southern states.

Charles Dana Gibson is honorary president of the New York branch of the alliance, and Mrs. Jovett Parker Singleton is president. In a very businesslike manner, Frances established her headquarters for the performance at the Drake hotel on Park avenue, and there she has kept daily office hours with her co-chairman, Mrs. George R. Boynton.

Since the American opera is only one act, it will be presented with "La Boheme," and will doubtless attract a most brilliant and representative audience. Heading the list of boxholders are Mrs. Duke Biddle, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie and Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, with the entire list being made up of figures just as prominent in Gotham's social, financial and cultural realms.

The success of the venture, even with the handicap of an unheralded singer, seems assured. Which is not at all surprising when one considers that back of it is Frances McLANAHAN's remarkable executive ability, her penchant for organizing and her great personal charm.

HAVE you heard the latest prank played by Chip Robert, who pulled the best stunt aboard the ship on a recent cruise to Jamaica? He sent his hand-picked group of friends ashore to purchase white linen suits, and instructed them to don the suits before returning to the steamer. The assistant secretary of the treasury awaited their arrival, holding a bucket of black paint, and he immediately proceeded to turn them into candidates for a convict chain gang. Whether the wearers of the white linen suits accepted the prank in good fun, or retaliated with good measure, has not been recorded up to the present moment.

ATLANTA hostesses seem to be on the quiver for doing the unusual in way of decorations for their luncheon and dinner tables. Sometimes it's new lines, or perhaps exquisite or imported china, or often it's a clever blending of colors or flowers, the latter lending themselves most effectively under all circumstances. This time it's color harmony.

Sally had the pleasure of dining in the hospitable home of the George M. Browns on Muscogee avenue the other evening, and what a lovely sight that table presented! Mrs. Brown loves lavender and, to our way of thinking, it's quite natural that she should. She reminds me of old lace and lavender with her artistic personality and charming manner and personality. But back to the table. Mrs. Brown used exquisite hand-made lavender linen mats, which were offset to their best advantage by the rich mahogany dining table. The center of the table was graced by a mound of narcissi, dyed to match the mats, and were almost artificial in appearance under a large crystal globe. Crystal candlesticks holding tapers completed the decorations. That globe over the lavender narcissi fascinated me as light rays danced through the crystal and seemed to play hide and seek with the delicate shade of the narcissi, which had lost none of their life not beauty in their change of color.

President's Birthday Ball Is Planned By DeKalb County

The president's birthday ball will be held in the Forrest Hills Club on Wednesday evening, January 30, sponsored by citizens of DeKalb and DeKalb county, with Julius Metz as chairman of the committee on arrangements. Tickets for the ball are on sale by various organizations in DeKalb, and a street sale will be held on Saturday, January 26, in DeKalb county under the leadership of Mrs. English McGeachy, of the Junior Service League, and Mrs. Guy Hudson, of the Parent-Teacher organizations. Mrs. Marybelle Woodruff Darby will present the following group of her dancing pupils in a floor show: May Jo Young, Jane Taylor, Joyce Lynch, Alice Clements, Betty Jones, Elaine Mayer, Nell Taylor, Alice Orenstein, Mel Turner, Charlotte Demoran, Virginia Christian, Jacqueline Conklin, Imogene Gower, Mary Steele, Perol King, Mildred Hill, Anne Jacobs, and Helene Lovelace.

The grand march will be the opening number led by Julius Metz, chairman of the committee on arrangements, and Miss Ruth Stafford, members of the committee will be followed by a group of prominent citizens who have been asked to act as patrons.

Mr. Mrs. Heyman Honor Visitors

Among events planned for the weekend is the informal "at home" at which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heyman will be hosts Saturday evening at their residence on Peachtree road honoring their guests, Mrs. Leo Schwabacher and Miss Bertha Schwabacher, of Seattle, Wash., and Joseph K. Heyman, of New York, who will arrive Friday.

Miss Schwabacher and Mr. Heyman announced their engagement recently, which is of interest to the many friends here of Mr. Heyman, a former Atlantian and son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heyman.

SOCIETY EVENTS

THURSDAY, JANUARY 24.

Miss Mary Adair Howell and Miss Charlotte King, brides-elect, will be complimented at a luncheon at 1:30 o'clock given by Miss Caroline Selden at her home in Ansley Park.

Miss Kathleen Griffin will entertain at a tea-dance at Margaret Bryan's studio.

The Speakers' Club of the University System of Georgia Evening school will celebrate its fourth birthday at a banquet in the Daffodil tea room.

The monthly luncheon of Atlanta Better Films will be held at Davison's tea room at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. H. R. Vaughan entertains the Fifty-Fifty Study Club at her home on Gaston street.

Mrs. Howard Motley will honor Mrs. Allan Spencer, of New York, at a buffet luncheon at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. D. Fred Rogers on Ivey road.

Miss Grace Lindley, executive secretary of the national women's auxiliary, will be honored at the informal dinner at the home of Mrs. Shepard Bryan, 2702 Peachtree road, following luncheon.

Travelers' Aid Meets At Power Co. Building.

Dr. Herman Turner, outstanding church and civic leader, will address the annual meeting of the Travelers' Aid Society on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Georgia Power Company building, Marietta street. Mrs. Turner, president, will preside and election of officers will take place.

Directors of this important social agency are: Robert Alton, James Alexander, Dr. Dan E. Clark, Howell Jr., E. K. Large, R. P. McArthur, Frank Neely, R. D. Pegg, Henry P. Powell, Ben S. Read, Dr. C. R. Stauffer, G. K. Seldon, Judge Garfield Watkins, Mesdames Ralph White, W. B. Williamson, C. W. Wickham, S. J. Boykin, John W. Hurt, W. E. Mansfield, L. Altman, Henry Davis, M. P. Greenfield, Arthur I. Harris, W. H. Harris, Whitner Howard, Samuel Lumpkin and W. L. Stanley.

Literature Class.

The class in contemporary literature will meet with Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at her residence at 887 Juniper street. Mrs. Morris will discuss Clemence, the English novelist and dramatist, and will read from versions of "L'Aiglon," now being used by E. Le Gallienne and from her beautiful play of the boy poet, Thomas Chatterton, "The Rhymer," which was played in New York last year.

Kappa Alpha Delta.

Miss Janice Hardage, popular president of the Kappa Alpha Delta sorority, recently left Atlanta to make her home in Daytona Beach, Fla. Miss Dorothy Sigman, vice president, takes Miss Hardage's place as president of the sorority. Miss Nancy is the newly-elected vice president.

At the last meeting held at the home of Miss June Brannon plans were made for a script dance to be held soon. Plans were also discussed for the informal and formal initiation of the pledges.

Prayer Service.

A prayer service will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of Mrs. M. F. Hollis, 620 Stokeswood avenue. Members of the Home Makers' class of Moreland Avenue Baptist church are invited to be present.

Will Lead Ball at University

Attired in the costume that Mary Pickford wore in her recent broadcast, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., will lead the grand march at Atlanta's first Hollywood movie ball to be staged by the service group on Friday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. The information that Miss Pickford had graciously consented to lend her costume for this occasion came in a letter recently received by Mrs. James D. Robinson, chairman of the group. In his letter to Miss Robinson, the famous actress pointed out that the stock company of which she is the leading lady is the only one of its kind in the world. The company, according to Miss Pickford, believes that by the use of costumes its work gains greater sincerity.

Proceeds from the Hollywood movie ball, the price of admission to which is $2.50, will go entirely to the charity work of the service group, which, among other endeavors, operates the Omnibus Shop at 440 West Peachtree street. The public is invited to attend the ball and each guest is asked to appear costumed as a movie star. Mrs. Robinson will be glad to furnish information as to where costumes may be made or rented in Atlanta, and can be reached at Dearborn 2751.

Carol Lombard, the well-known and popular blond movie star, who is in New York, wishes Mrs. Robinson on Wednesday her "best wishes for the success of the movie ball, and regret that I cannot be with you in person."

Mrs. William T. Healey, chairman of the ticket committee, met with marked success in the advance ticket sale which she conducted from her office in the Healey building. Tickets sold for the movie ball, and in their sale at all downtown banks, Weinberger's, J. P. Allen & Company, Rick's, J. Regenstein Company, Leon Froshin's, Davison-Paxon Company, Southern Bell Telephone Company, Georgia Power Company, Piedmont Driving Club, Standard Club, Capital City Club, Atlanta Women's Club, Home Drug Stores, George Mue Clothing Company, Biltmore hotel, Susan Spalding shop, Georgian Terrace hotel, Jacobs Drug Stores and at Fort McPherson.

Six prizes for the cleverest costumes at the ball will be awarded, two having been contributed by Davison-Paxon Company and by Rick's. Inc., according to an announcement by Mrs. Frank Ellis, program chairman.

Mrs. Robinson Jr. Will Lead Movie Ball on Friday

Attired in the costume that Mary Pickford wore in her recent broadcast, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Mrs. James D. Robinson Jr., will lead the grand march at Atlanta's first Hollywood movie ball to be staged by the service group on Friday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. The information that Miss Pickford had graciously consented to lend her costume for this occasion came in a letter recently received by Mrs. James D. Robinson, chairman of the group. In his letter to Miss Robinson, the famous actress pointed out that the stock company of which she is the leading lady is the only one of its kind in the world. The company, according to Miss Pickford, believes that by the use of costumes its work gains greater sincerity.

Proceeds from the Hollywood movie ball, the price of admission to which is $2.50, will go entirely to the charity work of the service group, which, among other endeavors, operates the Omnibus Shop at 440 West Peachtree street. The public is invited to attend the ball and each guest is asked to appear costumed as a movie star. Mrs. Robinson will be glad to furnish information as to where costumes may be made or rented in Atlanta, and can be reached at Dearborn 2751.

Miss Fuller Weds Mr. Russ, Of Dallas, at Home Ceremony

Exquisite beauty marked the wedding of Miss Vivian Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fuller, of Dallas, Texas, which was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents on Twenty-eighth street. Rev. W. M. Barnett, pastor of Calvary Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. A program of musical music was presented by Mrs. Annie Mae Norton, pianist, and Frank Turner, violinist. They played "Venezia Love Song," by Nevin; "Perfect Mould," by O'Hara, and "Rendezvous," by Nello Dougherty sang "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me."

The home was attractively decorated with plants and southern smilax, combined with baskets and vases of Easter lilies. In the living room where the rites were read an improvised altar was formed of palms interspersed with baskets of Easter lilies alternating with cathedral candelabra holding white lighted tapers.

Acting as maid of honor and the bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Ovidio Fuller, who wore a model of rose-colored tulle made with close-fitting bodice and fashionably waisted with a plaited train. She wore a jacket of the tulle made with elbow-length sleeves in puffed effect. Her hat was a small one of rose tulle edged with a band of the same shade. She carried a beautiful bouquet of Joanna Hill roses tied with ribbon to match.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Claude Fuller, and the groom was attended by his brother, Alton Russ. The bride's gown was a fashionably white crepe fashioned in Russian tunic effect and made with long close-fitting sleeves. Tiny self-covered buttons outlined either side of the bodice back of the bodice which opened from the neck to the waistline. She wore a small hat of white crepe from which fell a shoulder-length veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller entertained at an informal reception after the ceremony. The bride and groom were seated at the dining room table with an imported lace cloth, the central decoration being a five-tiered wedding cake, embossed in pink and white and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. Silver candelabra holding white tapers enhanced the beauty of the table decorations.

MILLS OF THE GODS

By Melville Baker and John S. Kirkland.

INSTALLMENT I.

The first of industry burned brightly in 1928. The glow and warmth of America's smug happiness, complacent in its prosperity, radiated from belching chimneys now high into the sky. The clang of the spade on rich earth told the story of a safely padded dollar—America's dollar, high and mighty. Who could guess the chaos to come?

Our story is an instance—a symbol in a documentary history—American life. We step outside the main office building of the vast Hastings Ploom Company, here (tarnished brass lettering tells us) that the company was founded in 1878. Forty years of sound business! Forty years of strife and struggle!

Inside, old Mary Hastings, some 70 years of age, faces her board of directors. Her voice was sure, firm. Yet, her eyes were tired; Mary Hastings was a fighter weary of the ring. Her head bobbed emphatically as she spoke.

"Fifty years, gentlemen, I've been behind this desk. That's a long time. I'm an old woman and I'm tired—and I'm quitting."

Mary continued, "Fifty years ago my husband invented a ploy that was just a little better than anybody else's. Anyway, people seemed to think so, because they bought 'em and kept on buying 'em until this plant grew from a blacksmith's shop to one of the largest and finest plants in the world. But my husband's zone and I've had enough." Mary's eyes softened momentarily as she looked up at her husband's picture, but the hard glint returned. "My children and grandchildren should be sitting where you're sitting. They should be here ready to pick things up where I'm dropping them. But they don't care. They've got too much money. Their grandfather left them a $500,000 trust fund. They're no good—the whole lot of 'em. It's up to you. It's your party from now on."

Mary stared for a moment, then shrugged. "Morgan, take that picture down, will you?" Morgan hesitated, then obeyed.

Thomas turned to Mary. "What are you planning to do, Mrs. Hastings?" "Get on a boat and go places!" Mary picked up her long black gloves. "Atkinson, get my car."

The men stood awkwardly a moment, then Komevski moved forward. "We'll do our best, Mrs. Hastings."

Mary smiled. "I know you will. Good-by, boys. Good luck." She picked up her husband's picture. "Come on, John. We're going home."

Burroughs held the door for her. She smiled as she passed him. "I'm depending on you to keep those mills going," she said.

"The end of a dynasty," said Komevski slowly.

Morgan shook his head. "She'll be back."

"Think so?" Burroughs was staring at the barren wall.

LIGHTING THE NIGHT.

IV—Oil Lamps and Gas Lights. At present, it is obtained largely from petroleum. It was fairly safe and gave a rather good light—by old standards. By modern standards, the kerosene lamp gives a poor light; and it is a trouble to the housewife because of the need for filling and cleaning.

About 300 years ago, a scientist named Van Helmont made tests in which he heated fuels in closed containers. He found that they gave off something which he called "gas" or "vapor."

Other persons learned that a strange vapor rose from coal fields, and that it would burn. William Murdoch, a queer Scotchman who wore wooden hats, found a way to take gas from coal; and in 1792 he used gas to light a house. Later he made it light an English factory.

Meanwhile a Frenchman named Le Bon was finding a way to take gas from wood. Wood gas did not prove so practical as coal gas, but was used for lighting a large building in Paris, and the grounds around it.

London and Paris were among the pioneers in lighting their streets with gas. Later it came into wide use for lighting houses.

By G. A. PHILLIPS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (P)—

Strength in United States government bonds overshadowed all other activity on the New York stock exchange today with 18 issues attaining new 1934-35 highs. Corporate bonds were generally narrow.

Other than the statement of Secretary Morgenthau before the house appropriations committee that he was optimistic over future federal financing, there was nothing in the day's news to account for the broad advance in government bonds, although continued institutional buying was believed to account for a considerable portion of the turnover of $4,900,000.

Treasury 3 1/2 per cent 1940 advanced 14-32nds to 108-1/2, the 3 1/2 per cent of 1942 advanced 10-3/4 to 103-1/2, and the 4 1/2 per cent of 1945 advanced 10-3/4 to 103-1/2.

Lower-priced bonds were bid up 1/2 to 1 1/2 at 110-1/2, and Louisville and Nashville 3 1/2 per cent of 1938-39 advanced 1/2 to 103-1/2.

The Associated Press average of 20 railroads advanced 15-1/2 to 104-1/2, that for 10 utilities was 39 of a point higher at 86-5/8, and 10 low-yield issues held virtually unchanged.

Among those showing advance was New Orleans Public Service 5 1/2 per cent of 1938, which advanced 1/2 to 104-1/2, and the 4 1/2 per cent of 1940, which advanced 1/2 to 103-1/2.

Transfers aggregated $14,528,000, the largest in the past year, compared with $13,529,000 on Tuesday.

CORPORATE BONDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (P)—

Strength in United States government bonds overshadowed all other activity on the New York stock exchange today with 18 issues attaining new 1934-35 highs.

Corporate bonds were generally narrow. Other than the statement of Secretary Morgenthau before the house appropriations committee that he was optimistic over future federal financing, there was nothing in the day's news to account for the broad advance in government bonds.

Although continued institutional buying was believed to account for a considerable portion of the turnover of $4,900,000.

Treasury 3 1/2 per cent 1940 advanced 14-32nds to 108-1/2, the 3 1/2 per cent of 1942 advanced 10-3/4 to 103-1/2, and the 4 1/2 per cent of 1945 advanced 10-3/4 to 103-1/2.

Lower-priced bonds were bid up 1/2 to 1 1/2 at 110-1/2, and Louisville and Nashville 3 1/2 per cent of 1938-39 advanced 1/2 to 103-1/2.

The Associated Press average of 20 railroads advanced 15-1/2 to 104-1/2, that for 10 utilities was 39 of a point higher at 86-5/8, and 10 low-yield issues held virtually unchanged.

Among those showing advance was New Orleans Public Service 5 1/2 per cent of 1938, which advanced 1/2 to 104-1/2, and the 4 1/2 per cent of 1940, which advanced 1/2 to 103-1/2.

Transfers aggregated $14,528,000, the largest in the past year, compared with $13,529,000 on Tuesday.
